Weirton Christian Center: Spring Events' Report

by Kim Weaver, director, Weirton Christian Center

As our ministry continues to grow and expand services to those in need, we continue to need more space and more funding. We could not minister to these children and their families without the support of the West Virginia Baptist churches who put us in their mission budgets, provide for our quarters' fund, collect items we need and take up special offerings for us. We cannot thank you enough for the partnerships we have with so many of you! Thanks for thinking of us when you plan Vacation Bible School or other events that allow you to include our needs, our children and our story. We have a video available to anyone who would like to learn more. Check us out on Facebook for ongoing photo updates and news about the center. We are working to update the site and have just added a staff member who will be able to teach computer classes and help the children with our summer reading program. We had been receiving the Lexia Learning program free from the Hancock County School system, but they didn't renew this year, so we are very thankful the funding has come through from the Pugliese Foundation. We are currently trying to fund our summer lunch program. God has been so awesome at providing support for the Weirton Christian Center for 97 years! Please be in prayer for our children and their families who have so many needs, our staff who sometimes struggle with how to handle behaviors and our facility expansion that is so necessary at this point. Thank you for being part of our ministry!

CARRY THE CROSS RELAY AND CROSS DISTRIBUTION - Resurrection Sunday 2014 took on a new experience for the Weirton Christian Center kids. Our new staff member, Greg Mullins, constructed two wooden crosses and to help the children understand just a little of what Jesus went through, the kids participated in a Carry the Cross Relay. The relay route was up the hill on our steepest street, and for the younger ones, the side yard hill. They also distributed 100 crosses throughout the neighborhood in an effort to remind others Jesus is risen.

GOODBYE INTERNS - We said goodbye to Katie and Jenna, who completed their internship with us. They were wonderful with our children, helping with homework and programs in the afterschool as well as working with our preschoolers. Both had their career choices solidified by their experiences with us. Katie will be a teacher and Jenna will be a counselor for children.

CAREER DAYS - Career Days help our children see the opportunities available for them in the future. Aerika West, our new AmeriCorps VISTA volunteer, through the United Way of Charleston, hit the ground running in March 2014. She has had two months of Career Day each week as three different occupational guests are given 20 minutes to tell our youth about their jobs. Featured speakers have included a lawyer, police officer, coach, nurse, FBI Agent, photographer, dancer, actor, veterinarian and many more. This group was the result of a list made by the kids when asked, "What to do you want to be when you grow up?" We have one very ambitious seven-year-old who wants to be an FBI agent, and a scientist so he can cure cancer. Also, for our high school students, we have partnered with First Choice Community Credit Union to provide a six-week curriculum on Financial Literacy.

VOLUNTEER APPRECIATION - Aerika also orchestrated a volunteer appreciation luncheon as one of her projects. Volunteers, who have come to serve meals on Thursdays, tutor our kids or give any of their time and talents to the center, were invited to a luncheon where they received a mug, designed by our high school girls, letting them know they are the piece that completes our puzzle. We could not do all we do without the help of those willing to voluntarily serve at the Weirton Christian Center.

GRADUATES - Two of our graduates this year are starting a new chapter in their lives. Breona Brown has been accepted at Grace Bible College in Indiana, and is the first of ten in her family to graduate high school and go to college. Her two younger brothers are going to follow in her footsteps.

Clarence Bennett is undecided as to where he will attend school, but as an athlete in football and track, he is leaning toward schools that have contacted him to participate in sports. He also has an interest in culinary arts.

The mission of the West Virginia Baptist Convention is to empower local churches to be Christ honoring communities of faith and to help them fulfill their mission by enabling them to do together what they cannot do alone.

Hope Springs Eternal

Dr. David Carrico

We stand on the edge of summer after spring arriving later than we had hoped. Most folks would agree we experienced a long difficult winter - one that seemed would never end. The months were filled with long, cold, dark days and it affected people in all kinds of ways. Many churches reported the inability to have Sunday services and many meetings and gatherings were rescheduled or just cancelled. Travel was difficult, and each day a school closing or delay decision filled our early news broadcast. Those decisions challenged child care services and the work schedules of many of our families. Of course, the issue of making up lost school days became a debate in the media. Later, as school became a more regular event, then came the flu and cold season. Winter became a physical, mental and spiritual battle. Yet HOPE springs eternal!

Those lost weeks of regular worship hit our church offerings very hard. The cost of heating and maintaining the church kept rising and yet, our offerings did not. Well, into this spring, many of our communities of faith had a deep financial shortfall and some very difficult decisions had to be made concerning the paying of bills. Thank God for solid leadership in our churches who take on the responsibility of being accountable to make those hard decisions.

In the same manner, this winter has not been financially kind to the West Virginia Baptist Convention. The shortfall comes to our organization in gifts to missions. Many churches find the need to cut their support of mission in difficult seasons of the church year. As a pastor, the churches I was blessed to serve gave to missions first and understood giving as a priority. Each church has its own understanding of missions and stewardship. Through the years, as we have partnered together in doing missions, the strength of our Baptist family has been courtesy and honesty. Our churches have been courteous in sharing as they can, and honest in sharing as God has blessed.

HOPE springs eternal as now you can respond to the need to fill the gap created by the winter. First, give to your church and her mission in your community. Then as you can, give to the greater Baptist family. Please be assured nothing is in danger of going away in our Baptist family. Your gifts to all the missions supported by our Baptist family are needed and as we work together that gap will disappear. There is a realization many of our churches are doing all they can financially.

The spiritual challenge is to be in prayer.

- Pray for our united mission efforts and each specific area of focus.
- Pray for our Mountain State Mission Offering, knowing each gift stays in our state to make disciples.
- Pray for the missionaries in our nation and around the world.

Through prayer, HOPE springs eternal.

Take God at His word. In my attempt to be honest, I am not overly-concerned, just concerned. I know we will gain strength and church health as we recover from this winter season. I trust you and I trust our good Lord.

"...prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it." Malachi 3:10

May we work together and partner with God to be a blessing.

HOPE springs eternal!

Blessings

One Great Hour of Sharing: We Are One with the Hungry in Jackson County

Packing lunches for delivery to those who are ill or recovering from surgery, Kathy Hudson of Ravenswood First Baptist Church, is a volunteer with the church's CommUNITY Kitchen ministry.

In Jackson County, West Virginia, where 16.7 percent of the population is below the national poverty line, 18.2 percent of residents are at least age 65, and the unemployment rate is 7.4 percent, the CommUNITY Kitchen at Ravenswood First Baptist Church (Good Hope) is making a difference. So do you, when you give to One Great Hour of Sharing.

On behalf of American Baptist Churches USA, American Baptist Home Mission Societies (ABHMS) has awarded a $2,000 One Great Hour of Sharing Domestic Development Grant to CommUNITY Kitchen. These funds will help to provide hot meals for up to 150 individuals monthly.

Photos by Craig Thompson

CommUNITY Kitchen has expanded since its founding in 2008. "It was developed with the goal of providing local residents with a hot meal as well as acting as a stop gap for those who do not qualify for public assistance but yet struggle to make ends meet," says Amy Starkey, the church's treasurer. "During its infancy, the program fed about five people per week. However, with donations and dedicated volunteers, the program has continued to grow. It is the only ongoing soup kitchen in Jackson County and currently feeds about 30 people per week."

But CommUNITY Kitchen provides a whole lot more than nutrition. Says Starkey: "Not only does the program provide a hot meal for those in need, but it also provides a safe haven as well as a time of fellowship for the local elderly population who may otherwise be without human contact."

Baptist Campus Ministries: How Much Better is God's Plan!

It is the end of another school year. Saying goodbye to incredible students is the bittersweet part of college ministry. Below is a testimony from Sarah about how Baptist Campus Ministries (BCM) has impacted her life.

"When I first came to college, I wasn't interested in Jesus. I actually remember glancing at the King James Bible my church gave me when I completed confirmation, with my name engraved on the cover, and decided not to pack it with my dorm things. In high school, I had started questioning my parents' faith, and while I never said out loud I didn't believe in Christ, I looked at people who loved Jesus more than anything else and thought they were well-intentioned but a little extreme. I shoved thoughts of God to the back of my mind so I didn't have to deal with my uncertainty.

I also didn't intend to go to Marshall; I originally wanted to move several hours away and "be more independent." But then I received an incredible scholarship opportunity there and couldn't turn it down. Here is one example how good God is and how much better His plan is than my own! Several students from that same scholarship program invited me to BCM my first week at Marshall. I wasn't interested in BCM itself, but I really liked these people and I wanted them to like me, plus I could socialize with new people, and I figured I could handle hearing somebody talk about the Bible for a few minutes.

So, I came to BCM with my new friends and I was astonished at the authenticity I felt in the room. There was no sense of church politics or drama like I was used to. Instead, people worshiped with clear, unreserved joy. In that room for that hour nothing else mattered but Jesus. When I left that night, I felt like an impostor, like I couldn't possibly belong with all those happy people. But I kept going back. The joy drew me in.

Some weeks later, I was still on the fence. I'd brought my Bible back to campus with me after a trip home. I even signed up to go to Fall Retreat. At Camp Coven that weekend, I saw a girl from China accept Christ, and in that moment I knew I had to choose to follow Christ or reject Him. And even though (after eighteen years of being in church) I was just beginning to understand a fraction of what that meant. I chose to follow Christ and I never looked back.

God is so good. I know we say that all the time, but it has proven to be completely true, especially in the last few years. I can see the Spirit working in my heart, changing me from who I was to who I am now because of my Savior. He led me to I-Teams, where I realized I now belong in this body of Christ. I am no longer a pretender. I am one of God's own. I even had the humbling opportunity my senior year to lead an I-Team of smart, compassionate young women who taught me so much about the word and walking in the light.

God carried me. Through difficult moments in friendships and the painful trial of losing my father, He carried me and continues to do so. He brought me to Marshall, where I found BCM, grew closer to my family than I'd ever been and met mentors who would lead me spiritually and academically in paths that would be glorifying to Him. It is astonishing how all the smaller decisions I've made, in retrospect, are clearly part of the path God was setting out for me even when I was questioning His existence. My time at BCM is the biggest treasure of my four years at Marshall because God pursued me and now I have a relationship with Him."

Rogers Co-founds Renew Transformational Strategies to Equip Christian Leaders

by Ed Rogers, co-founder, Renew Transformational Strategies

“If you’re in a bad situation, don’t worry it will change. If you’re in a good situation, don’t worry it’ll change,” says John Simone, Jr. Change is inevitable, change is necessary and change can be bad. It can bring anxiety, despair and grief. However, there is good change. As a matter of fact, God calls us to change. Paul says, “Do not conform any longer to the pattern of this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind.” (Romans 12:2 NIV) We are called to be transformed. As a leader in your local church, you have probably struggled with change. We are called to transformation on three levels. First of all, we are transformed personally. Then as leaders we are called to lead transformation in the church, who then is called to make a difference in the world. While all three levels of change can be challenging according to Paul, it is only when this happens that we are able to know and do God’s will.

After 26 years of ministry at South Parkersburg Baptist Church (Parkersburg), I felt God’s call on my heart to serve pastors, churches and Christian business leaders in these three areas of transformation. For this reason, I and local Christian business owner, Burt Reed, formed Renew Transformational Strategies (RTS). Renew Transformational Strategies exists to equip leaders who lead transformation within their church or business, that in turn impacts the world for Christ. Being a pastor for many years, I appreciated all the help I could get, but often faced two problems with that help. First, the help was standardized and offered as something that would work in all churches. Second, the help was expensive. For this reason, RTS recognizes the unique context and calling of every church we work with, and we design our services specifically for that church, and we are very affordable.

Some of the services we offer to churches are:

- Personal pastoral coaching centered around spiritual and leadership transformation
- Team building training for leadership teams
- Long term transitional consulting that helps transform your church into a healthy body of believers who impact their community and the world
- Pulpit supply
- Working with your church through an interim period
- Renew Conferences - an alternative to a traditional revival consisting of three or four sermons, a training for your lay leadership and one-on-one coaching for your pastor or staff
- Leadership training events focused on managing change, setting vision, understanding adaptive change, legacy leadership, etc.
- Online leadership classes for clergy and laity
- Specific need based consulting - new building projects, staff restructuring, administrative structure changes, satellite ministry, new church planting, etc.

It has been an honor to serve our Lord as a pastor within this West Virginia Baptist Convention family. It is now an honor to serve you in His name in a different role. If you are interested in RTS helping you in any way, you can contact me at 304.210.8943, or e-mail me at ed@renewts.com.

The Difference You Make

There is a legend about an ancient village in Spain. The villagers learned the king would pay a visit! In a thousand years, a king had never come to that village. Excitement grew! "We must throw a big celebration," the villagers all agreed. But, it was a poor village, and there weren't many resources. Someone came up with a classic idea. Since many of the villagers made their own wines, the idea was for everyone in the village bring a large cup of their choice wine to the town square. "We'll pour it into a large vat and offer it to the king for his pleasure! When the king draws wine to drink, it will be the very best he's ever tasted!"

The day before the king's arrival, hundreds of people lined up to make their offering to the honored guest. They climbed a small stairway, and poured their gift through a small opening at the top. Finally, the vat was full! The King arrived, was escorted to the square, given a silver cup and was told to draw some wine, which represented the best the villagers had.

He placed the cup under the spigot, turned the handle, and then drank the wine, but it was nothing more than water. You see, every villager reasoned, "I'll withhold my best wine and substitute water, what with so many cups of wine in the vat, the king will never know the difference!" The problem was, everyone thought the same thing, and the king was greatly dishonored. (unknown origin)

While this story is a legend, the lessons learned from it are very real. As members of a community of faith, we must each give of our best in service to the Lord and in our financial support. As churches that are part of our West Virginia Baptist Convention family, your participation and financial support is critical to the success of the mission and ministries God has called us to do together.

It is far too easy to assume the load will be carried by everyone else. It is far too easy to believe your gift will not be missed if not given - that your mission giving does not make a difference. Let me assure you: Every dollar given to missions makes a difference! And conversely: Every dollar not given weakens our effectiveness in fulfilling our mission.

No one in the village would have dared offer the king less than their best individually. Yet, because the gifts were anonymous and part of the collective, they each assumed the others would make up for their selfishness. Their celebration was ruined because each of them had not fulfilled his/her obligation.

Your gifts do make a difference!

BOOK REVIEW

Taking Your Church to the Next Level: What Got You Here Won't Get You There

by Gary McIntosh

Review by Michael Sisson, pastor, Crab Orchard Missionary Baptist Church (Greenbrier-Raleigh)

Many West Virginia Baptist Convention pastors and leaders are familiar with Dr. Gary L. McIntosh from the insightful gleanings found in the Growth Points newsletter provided regularly in the West Virginia Baptist Convention pastors' mailing packet. Dr. McIntosh has authored 18 books on church growth. In his book, Taking Your Church to the Next Level: What Got You Here Won't Get You There, the author explains the impact of age and size on churches, and outlines the improvements that must be made at each point for a church to remain fruitful and faithful to its mission.

In part one, the author sets the stage by offering background information regarding the origin and progression of life cycle methodology for determining a congregation's current state of development. McIntosh then identifies five stages in a church's life cycle and explains the dynamics at work within the congregation corresponding to each particular stage.

The second part of the book takes a similar path as in first, but delineates the various categories of church size. Each chapter analyzes how the size of the church impacts and intersects with the church life cycle.

In the third part, McIntosh calls church leaders to action and challenges them to be innovative, proactive and intentional with their revitalization plans. Throughout the book, he points to the need for congregations to have strong leadership. He describes in some detail the characteristics of leadership required to make the crucial turnaround in a declining congregation and offers choice points of leverage to assist growing congregations move to the next level.

McIntosh introduces readers to the reality of systems at work within the church and the impact of the cause and effect they can create within the dynamics of a congregation. He lists key systems as "ministry capital" consisting of five core resources: spiritual, directional, relational, structural and physical. McIntosh explains ministry capital activates or deactivates the feedback systems thus effecting the life and effectiveness of the congregation in a positive or negative way. He writes, "Wise church leaders will pay close attention to the feedback received along this interconnected highway. If a church is not growing, it is a clear signal the ministry capital is losing power and new capital needs to be discovered, developed and put into place. If the church is growing, it is a signal the current investment of ministry capital is paying dividends." (page 110)

In my opinion, this book is certainly a worthwhile read. It provides a very good primer for understanding the various factors at work in every church, whether they are declining, plateaued or growing, and introduces leaders to thought provoking ideas for "taking your church to the next level."

Hispanic Ministries: Remember Those in Prison as if You Were There Yourself - Acordaos De Los Presos Como si Estuvieras Allí Mismo

In the gospel of Matthew, Jesus commands His followers to demonstrate compassion to the stranger, the naked and hungry and those in prison (Matthew 25:34-45). The reality is those in prison are lonely, forgotten and unseen. My grandmother used to say, "ojos que no ven, corazón que no siente (eyes that see no, heart that feels no)." Out of our sight, and despite the alarming statistics about incarceration, the women and men behind the walls of prisons are for the most part forgotten or ignored by society, even by the church. Perhaps, there is nothing "trendy" or "sexy" about prison ministry.

Lennie Spitale, in his book, Prison Ministry: Understanding Prison Culture Inside and Out, describes prison as "a country whose citizens never bear children, yet the census continues to record wild population growth." The statistics are staggering: one in 100 adults in America is behind bars. One in 31 adults is under correctional control. More than seven million people are either on probation or parole or in jail or prison. The United States has the highest number of people in prison than any other nation at any time in world history.

With the influx of Hispanic immigration, there has also been an increase in the numbers of Hispanic inmates in local, state and federal prisons. In 2012, Hispanics accounted for 48% of sentenced federal offenders and immigration offenses represented 30% of federal convictions. A significant number of Hispanics are in the federal correctional facilities in West Virginia. And through our prison ministry with Hispanic men, I have met many who came to this country to fulfill, with hard work and sacrifice, dreams of prosperity and freedom for their families, but ended up in prison. They are husbands, fathers, sons, brothers, grandchildren and brothers in Christ whose devotion to their families and work propelled them in a journey of hope.

Several years ago, Armando embarked on that journey. He emigrated from Mexico as a young adult with many dreams. He formed a family and his four children were born in Texas. He was blessed with a job and normal life. Unfortunately, his wife passed away four years ago. One day, tragedy struck again and he was caught driving without a driver's license. His life and family were torn asunder. He was sent to jail and then deported. He came back to the United States to reunite with his children and shortly after was caught again driving without a license. By re-entering the country after deportation he committed a federal offense. He was sent to a federal prison in West Virginia and then was deported to Mexico. His children remained in the United States and joined thousands of other kids in the foster care system. Armando first heard the gospel when he was ten years old at a church in Mexico. That church had a feeding program sponsored by Americans. He is now 50 years old and the seeds germinated. He gave his life to Christ in prison.

The writer to the Hebrews encourages us to "keep on loving each other as brothers and sisters. Don't forget to show hospitality to strangers, ... Remember those in prison, as if you were there yourself." (Hebrews 13:1-3) Even within prison walls, God is present and His Spirit is at work changing lives.

May the voice of Jesus, "I was in prison and you came to visit me," be heeded by His followers. May we realize we bring hope and encouragement to those behind bars by being there, by being a caring presence. Jesus Christ has the power to make all things new (2 Corinthians 5:17) - even the lives of broken, incarcerated women and men.

"Whenever you did one of these things to someone overlooked or ignored, that was me - you did it to me." (Matthew 25:40)

Parchment Valley Conference Center

by Frank Miller, Director of Operations,
Parchment Valley Conference Center

BROTHERS' KEEPER 2014

This year, Brothers' Keeper, a mission work camp and non-profit ministry program of Parchment Valley Conference Center in conjunction with Community Resources, will perform its 14th year of service for the citizens of Jackson County. This event is a mission work opportunity sponsored for the youth of our churches across the state, and is now partnering with the youth from churches in Ohio. This camp impacts homes and lives of the less fortunate here in Jackson County, and blesses the lives of all who participate. In July 2013,

The Brothers' Keeper 2013 team.

Brothers' Keeper gave 204 youth and their adult leaders a whole new perspective on the Christian ideals of servanthood by fully investing of oneself. This resulted in transformed lives for more than 50 residences and their families.

This year, July 6-10, we anticipate hosting over 200 youth and their adult counselors as they come to serve this county in the name of Jesus Christ. The youth are responsible for raising their own cost of $225 to register for camp. Most are repeat campers, which truly bring a blessing of HOPE to everyone.

It is by the contribution of sponsorships from the churches that enable this ministry to grow year after year. For $500, we can include the name of your church in our publications as a Brothers' Keeper 14 sponsor, and help to accommodate the youth and offset the cost of building supplies. We will be printing the T-shirts soon and need your sponsorship information now. The most critical step to a successful Brothers' Keeper is in securing sponsorships for building supplies. This allows us to accurately process the work request applications with Community Resources, and begin evaluating the sites for safety so the youth and adults will be in a safe work environment.

Without the dedicated and skilled help of our crew chiefs and adult leaders, this event would not be possible. Everyone displays a willing attitude to teach the youth important skills, and how to conduct the projects with a servant's heart. Through the strength of our teens and their organized leaders, we have given 6,528 labor hours back to the community. The Brothers' Keeper evangelism team surrounds the group with awesome music and inspiring messages, which touch the hearts of everyone involved during the weeklong mission camp. Will you join the Brothers' Keeper team and help continue doing a work that reaps rewards out of this world?

We would like to thank the churches and the incredibly gifted youth who are being empowered to become leaders. Please contact me now at 800.489.8564 or miller@wvbc.org to be a sponsor and help make the difference of a lifetime.

MOVING FORWARD IN 2014

Your mission and ministry support of Parchment Valley Conference Center is much needed and always appreciated. We are working cohesively to insure your planned event at Parchment Valley Conference Center is a blessing, and as you depart, our hope is you experience the Lord's peace within you. We are preparing for the busy summer season and our lagoon is closer to an approved plan of repair with the Department of Environmental Protection and more details of funding will soon follow. We would like to take this opportunity to welcome Sue Cross to the team as our new receptionist. Sue faithfully serves as a member of Parchment Valley Baptist Church (Good Hope) and is currently enrolled in the School of Christian Studies.

The dorm conference rooms which were heavily damaged from the winter's harsh freeze are now being repaired. The lodging area is being noted as the bunk house. This new area will comfortably house 40 additional people and is being fully furnished with all new and improved shower facilities with handicap accessibility. With the assistance of FOX Engineering and Construction, along with some American Baptist Men and other volunteers, we are well on the way to completing the work for the conference season. South Parkersburg Baptist Church (Parkersburg) has chosen this as a campus-wide mission project for building the bunks.

Any donations of wood to construct the new bunks are certainly welcomed.

A very special thank you to those who joined the Don Loudermilk Society and are generously donating to Building for Generations. Please contact me today to discover how you and your group can actively support and be part of a viable and blessed ministry.

We thank God for you and the opportunity He gives to reach out with hands prepared for service and hearts filled with joy in serving Jesus Christ.

The walls are going up in the new bunk house area.

1 Corinthians 16:13-14

¹³Be on your guard; stand firm in the faith; be courageous; be strong. ¹⁴Do everything in love.

Life is full of challenges, and the West Virginia Baptist Camp at Cowen wants to help our campers get ready to face those challenges. As students look at the above logo and read the scripture, we want them to be prepared to take a stand for Christ. Our society continues to make it tough on followers of Christ, and we want to encourage and strengthen them for whatever happens in their lives.

Summer 2014 will host approximately 2,000 campers, over 350 volunteers and numerous visitors, who are looking for and needing support. Our prayer is Camp Cowen provides that much needed courage. Each person can feel stronger when 250 Senior High campers yell, "Praise the Lord" after an "attitude check." Counselors are encouraged when a camper asks a question about God's word. Staff is encouraged when they hear 17 students accepted Christ last week! It is going to be a great summer as people are prepared to take a stand for Christ at Camp Cowen ... Where people meet Jesus and grow (stronger) as His disciples in a community of faith!

Men's Work Weekend Prepares Cowen for Summer Camping Season

On May 2-3, 2014, West Virginia Baptist Camp at Cowen experienced another great turnout for their annual American Baptist Men Work Weekend. This gathering is to prepare Camp Cowen for their summer camping season.

Bill Wilson organized more than 40 men to convene and handle the tasks at hand. On opening night, we were blessed with an outstanding meal of soup beans, cornbread, ham and all the trimmings. After dinner, we assembled at vespers and were challenged by David Carpenter's inspiring message.

The spirit of the Lord is truly upon this place as we see many difficult projects come to completion through the dedicated American Baptist Men of West Virginia, working together to prepare the way for more than 2,000 youth who will experience camp at Cowen this summer.

Men's Work Weekend participants work on taking down the rock wall.

Farnsworth Reflects on Ministry at Weirton Christian Center

Doris Farnsworth started working at Weirton Christian Center in 1956. She served as a director for the five kindergarten classes taught at the center. She always looked forward to the end-of-school programs that highlighted what the children had learned through the year. The ministry at the center focused on immigrant children whose families had moved to Weirton to work in the steel mills. Many of the workers had moved to the area to escape the harsh work in coal mines. Many others simply came to be with family and start a new life. The educational opportunities offered through the center gave the children a chance to learn English, develop social skills and most importantly, learn about Jesus.

Doris recalls with fondness her final year at the center as that is when Betty Killian joined the staff. Trained and called as a missionary, when Doris left the center she moved to Puerto Rico. It was there she began working with refugees from the Dominican Republic - a ministry she has continued for more than 50 years.

It was a privilege to meet Doris on a recent trip to Puerto Rico for the annual meeting of the Baptist Churches of Puerto Rico.

Baptist Campus Ministries Back on Fairmont State University Campus

by Jason Sleeth, Auxiliaries in Ministry, Fairmont State College

Baptist Campus Ministries (BCM) is once again up and running at Fairmont State University. Through lots of prayer and God's grace, Baptist Campus Ministries is able to have a presence in the lives of the student body at Fairmont State University.

We started 2013 with an outreach tent at the home Fairmont State football game, held during family weekend on September 14. The students were able to get a free BCM t-shirt, an informational handout and a bottle of water, just for stopping by. We were able to compile a list of 48 students that weekend. Praise God!

Now, we currently have six students attending our Sunday evening worship service at Fairmont First Baptist Church (Fairmont). Starting with only two on the first night, I can say we are making progress.

I am blessed to have a solid core of Christian students, the majority of them coming from the Fairmont State University softball team. We are definitely building a strong foundation as we continue to grow with Jesus leading the way!

I encourage everyone to help spread the word that BCM is back at Fairmont State, and the potential of doing God's work on this campus is endless. Please don't hesitate to contact me (jsleeth_yes@yahoo.com or 304.775.2205) if you have any questions.

Resurrection Sunday Baskets Given for Veterans' Affairs Veterans

On April 7, 2014, the members of Glen Falls Baptist

The Glen Falls Baptist Church basket delivery team.

Church (Judson) delivered Resurrection Sunday baskets to veterans in Clarksburg's Veterans' Affairs (VA) Medical Facility. After three months of collecting personal and comfort items, church members came together to assemble these beautiful baskets to give to our veterans at the hospital. In addition to personal items, each veteran received a military Bible, a booklet about God and of course, candy! The veterans and staff were touched by everyone's generosity. It was a blessing for all involved to see how Christ can work in all our lives when we follow Him.

Cheeseman is a teacher at Doddridge County Middle School as well as an assistant football coach. Blair is currently a full-time college student, working full-time and was recently married. Adult Discipleship: A Call to Action

You hear it everywhere! New ideas, new foods and new diet and exercise plans are being touted in newspapers, on TV, on the radio, on billboards, on Facebook, through flyers and the list goes on. Eat this food and dramatically reduce your risk of this disease or that. Try this food regimen and lose weight. Drink this and have more energy and a healthier heart. We in the United States are constantly looking to improve our health. Notice the word "looking!" We search and read and plan for better health, but it is not working for many. Why? Because searching, reading and planning are not a substitute for action.

Many times, it is the same for adults and their life-giving walk with Christ. We read, search and plan, but never really put the information into action. We have the information, but never make the decision and put forth the effort to put that information into action in our everyday lives. We know a lot, but do not do a lot.

Steven Macchia, in his book Becoming a Healthy Disciple says a fully devoted follower of Jesus Christ learns to love what God loves and PRACTICES His teachings in daily life. To practice means to apply, live out, carry out, perform and/or do. George Barna says, "True discipleship is about a lifestyle, not simply about stored up Bible knowledge."

Weight Watchers, juicing, water aerobics and vegan diets (just to name a few) have no power to help your life if you do not put them into action. You cannot be a Christian disciple without showing you are a disciple. Jesus does not call His followers just to be learners, but to be doers. We cannot imitate Christ without the action part of His life.

Here is a challenge: Think of your favorite action hero. Did that person practice what they learned and believed? What made that person a hero? How does that compare with what God is asking His disciples to do and be?

He is coming to learn more about West Virginia Baptist churches and to share about the work of the Baptists in Mozambique. He is available from July 28 - August 28, 2014. Contact Lisa Simmons to schedule.

- Raul Figueroa, from the Convention of Baptist Churches of Puerto Rico. Raul was part of the Puerto Rican Baptist Convention mission team who came last year to the Moorefield area and will be coming to work on staff at Camp Cowen this summer. He is high energy and eager to speak in churches and with youth groups on his time off. He is available for Sunday mornings only from June 15 - August 28, 2014. Contact Lisa Simmons to schedule.

All of these speakers would love to meet with groups on Sundays and Wednesdays, but would also enjoy meeting with small groups and individuals to share their work and strengthen relationships. Consider inviting them to a picnic, a hike, a fishing trip, swimming or just a backyard cookout.

God is at work and calls you to learn, pray and support His plans!
